This spell summons disembodied hands that will do the work of an entire construction crew. The caster creates as many pairs of hands as he has experience levels. All of the hands come equipped with carpentry tools. The hands do the work of a construction team equal in ability to any crew of professional carpenters, masons, miners, or sappers. The hands never need to rest or eat, and each pair performs as one worker. The hands are unable to fight or inflict physical damage on anything. They cannot be destroyed by non-magical means, and each pair has as many hit points as the caster has levels.

The material components of the spell include an assortment of miniature tools, worth at least 500 gp.
